Press release from AFRY

Changes to AFRY's Group Management

Emma Claesson, EVP and Head of Human Resources at AFRY, will leave the company no later than May 2020. Emma joined AFRY in 2014. She has helped to establish the company as one of the most attractive employers among engineers with a focus on leadership, diversity and inclusion.

"Emma's motivating and inclusive leadership has been a great asset to AFRY," says Jonas Gustavsson, CEO of AFRY. "We have gone through considerable changes in recent years, and Emma has always had a sharp focus on our employees. She has been a major contributor to redefining our view of leadership – Brave Leadership – that will form the basis for our continued development. I want to thank Emma for her efforts and wish her the best of luck in her future career."

"My years at AFRY have been a fantastic journey, both for the company and for me personally," says Emma. "With the launch of the new unified brand, we have laid the foundation for a new chapter. I am convinced that AFRY's continuing journey will position it as a world-class company in sustainable solutions for businesses and society at large."

Emma Claesson will leave AFRY to take up new challenges as EVP and Head of Human Resources for the Axel Johnson Group.

Recruitment of a new Head of Human Resources has begun.
